The proceeds from Fresh Faces of Fashion will be given to the Suicide and Crisis Center of North Texas to further their mission of helping those in crisis. Through their Crisis Services, the Center is able to help teenagers struggling with mental health issues and see that they are given appropriate assistance. The agency's Services of Suicide program offers those who have lost a loved one to suicide a safe and caring place to grieve and learn how to go on with their lives. In addition, the agency offers a 24-hour Crisis line staffed with crisis counselors, as well as various community outreach programs all at no cost to the community. For information: sccenter.org
